7. LANGUAGE CENTER WHERE YOU PLAN TO ATTEND IN TAIWAN 擬就讀之語文中心

University-affiliated language center:

Anywhere language center near or south of heping road (和平路) (CCU*, NTUE, NTU, NTNU). If it is guaranteed to transfer after one semester to Taipei after the first semester, then I might prefer NCKU in Tainan ~~for the first semester.~~

1. NCKU (winter) (year, winter) after first
2. CCU (summer) (only first semester, during summer)

8. Intended Duration

★ Summer 2016

↳ June to July and July to August

of.

over year 9 months

↳ September 2016 - August 2017

↳ If it is possible to do H&ES (or LEP) during the summer of 2016, ~~especially for~~ one or two summer terms, then attend college via Taiwan Scholarship, that would be optimal. If not, then I would like to apply for 9 months.

BRIEFLY STATE YOUR STUDY PLAN WHILE IN TAIWAN 請簡述在台讀書計畫

Q: This study plan was written for Taiwan Scholarship, as I am applying to both, but I will ultimately choose one. My study plan therefore goes beyond Chinese study.

What I Want to Do:

What I really desire is (1) to continue living in Taiwan; (2) to create a social organization here, not too far from what I feel MIT Center for Civic Media does, with less emphasis on the development of complex tools, and more on practice — using tools to create urban maps, geolocate discussions, keep government in check, follow and use Taiwan's Kickstarter for civic projects, and so on; and (3) to run a community hall for continuous local civil experience.

What I Want to Study:

My most desired direction of work overlaps well with the [MIT] Civic Media group's statement: "...Transforming civic knowledge into civic action..." and "...experimenting with a variety of new civic media techniques, from technologies for protests and civil disobedience...". I would like to re-experience current massively available technology (sensors, micro-controllers, etc.) and spend time playing with materials to have these things in working memory so that I (1) think of designs for civic tools. Ideally, I prefer to consistently execute and innovate on direct social and urban interventions to try to budge human behavior — in small steps toward collectively agreeable things like public safety, health, and sanitation — with a minimum amount of wealth. While experimenting, I would likely want to study anything related to that. The goal is to aid or enable people to make better decisions and actions and conversely to disorganize people from their habituated cultured actions to create more diverse social experiences, with the end being to improve society (non-material, culture) and urban (material),

I think as a kind of nomadic autodidact, creating (2) tools to facilitate self-education whilst physically moving will always naturally come to mind, and as a kind of people organizer so too will (3) tools to facilitate social organizing. These interests are auxiliary to the more civic-action-oriented interests, but it sure would be nice to have these groups around to interact with.

I think simply due to a long past of playing and even making games, I think as a counter to my more serious interests, (4) it would be nice to incept, design, and implement playful ideas again, even just for the sake of being actively making.
