PLEASE BRIEFLY STATE YOUR STUDY PLAN WHILE IN TAIWAN請簡述在臺讀書計畫

What I Want to Do:

What I really desire is (1) to continue living in Taiwan; (2) to create a social organization here, not too far from what I feel MIT Center for Civic Media does, with less emphasis on the development of complex tools, and more on practice — using tools to create urban maps, geolocate discussions, keep government in check, follow and use Taiwan's kickstarter for civic projects, and so on; and (3) to run a community hall for continuous local civil experience.

What I Want to Study:

My most desired direction of work overlaps well with the [MIT] Civic Media group's statement: "...Transforming civic knowledge into civic action..." and "...experimenting with a variety of new civic media techniques, from technologies for protests and civil disobedience...". I would like to re-experience current massively available technology (sensors, micro-controllers, etc.) and spend time playing with materials to have these things in working memory so that I (1) think of designs for civic tools. Ideally, I prefer to consistently execute and innovate on direct social and urban interventions to try to budge human behavior — in small steps toward collectively agreeable things like public safety, health, and sanitation — with a minimum amount of wealth. While experimenting, I would likely want to study anything related to that. The goal is to aid or enable people to make better decisions and actions and conversely to disorganize people from their habituated cultured actions to create more diverse social experiences, with the end being to improve society (non-material, culture) and urban (material),

I think as a kind of nomadic autodidact, creating (2) tools to facilitate self-education whilst physically moving will always naturally come to mind, and as a kind of people organizer so too will (3) tools to facilitate social organizing. These interests are auxiliary to the more civic-action-oriented interests, but it sure would be nice to have these groups around to interact with.

I think simply due to a long past of playing and even making games, I think as a counter to my more serious interests, (4) it would be nice to incept, design, and implement playful ideas again, even just for the sake of being actively making.

9. DECLARATION: I declare that:

- I am neither concurrently an ROC national, nor an overseas compatriot of the ROC;
- I am not currently undertaking studies in Taiwan for the same educational level as the scholarship type for which I am applying;
- I am not applying for this scholarship as an exchange student resulting from an agreement signed between my home institution and any Taiwan university/college;
- The information I have given on this application is complete and accurate to the best of my knowledge.

About interview:

(Asia)

Because I will be abroad I can only do a video conference.

About Chinese:

I desire to take a summer course at HES or EEP, before school begins.

I can take TOCFL level 3, but my writing is not level 3.

About Language

(how)

There are two programs: urban planning and creative industries, one is all English, the other is 50% English.

About references:

My references travel, so they must use email to send their letters;

A sealed envelope from Malaysia and France is quite inconvenient.
